English Sympathy.

It has been the fashion with some whose patriotism is quite as wordy, as it is sincere, to pitch into England and the English, as though there was in the mother country one universal and all pervading sentiment of bitter hostility to the Union. We have regretted the exhibition of this feeling, because we believed it to be unjust, at least in part, and it savors more of small demagogueism than of good sense. Unquestionably a portion of the nobility and some of the leading presses in their interest, have been jealous of our rapidly growing national strength and of the power of our republican institutions: these have magnified our civil troubles as much as possible, and have gladly and boastfully anticipated the destruction of the Union, and hailed the prospect of its downfall, as a proof of the weakness of our admirable system of popular government. This manifestation of prejudice and hostility has been confined, however, within comparatively narrow limits. The great "middling interest" has been warmly and decidedly with us in the great struggle, and never more ardent than now in its expressions of sympathy for the North. This class controls Great Britain; it is the balance wheel of the Kingdom. While it holds and utters its present opinions, we do not believe there is the slightest danger that any English ministry will dare to pursue a course of active hostility to the Union. The warm and living soul of the British nation throbs in generous response to every liberal and philanthropic movement on this side the Atlantic. The mission of Henry Ward Beecher—the volunteer Minister Plenipotentiary—accomplished a great work, in turning the hearts of the fathers unto the children, and there is now abundant evidence that no one need fear any intervention in behalf of a slave-holding dynasty by a people who boast that slaves cannot breathe upon their soil. A recent letter from Rev. Newman Hall, one of the most eloquent preachers and leaders of popular sentiment in London, to an American clergyman, contains the following cheering words:

The tide has turned in England. We have had hundreds of public meetings enthusiastic for Union and Emancipation; not one for the South. No one would venture to open such a one. The people are with us, and the "editors" will be as soon as success crowns your armies.

Some of us have been well abused by our satirists, but we are used to it; thus assailed, and it rather encourages us, showing that our work is being felt. Our government is honestly neutral, and will allow no breach of international obligations. And now your government, by God's wonderful providence, has been led step by step to a thorough avowal of Emancipation as its principle henceforth. Now there can be no doubt what the issues of this conflict are—Union and Emancipation as its avowed corollary. God grant that we may soon see law triumph over license—Union over disintegration—liberty over slavery—peace over a state of chronic war—as you would experience if divided.

Either slavery or liberty must rule throughout North America; or, there will be endless conflict between the two. Separation and peace is an impossibility. Thus shall slavery drive liberty from your soil. Never! There is but one alternative. Te[illegible] but better now finish it and establ[illegible] retail war and slavery on your descendants through long years.

God rules! Let christian hearts with you and with us ascend in prayer. And amid contentions and jealousies in other lands, let England and America ever be one in heart and hand. There cannot be a juster work with you, and with us, than binding together the hearts of Americans and Britons. Believe me ever, dear sir, faithfully yours,

NEWMAN HALL.

PEACE COMMISSIONERS.—Some of the Northern rebels in Congress lately proposed to send Commissioners to confer with the organized traitors at Richmond, seeming to forget that the Government already had dispatched several distinguished gentlemen to the South on that very business. Their names are Grant, Banks, Meade and Gilmore. They have full authority to make treaties written with the sword—the only one which rebels will keep—and in good time we have no doubt that their action will be approved and ratified by a grateful nation. Any other messengers are superfluous, and the Peace Democracy may better save their breath to vent their spite upon victorious patriots, than to waste words in interfering with the excellent Commissioners now operating at the scene of action.

THE GOOD WORK GOES ON.—On Monday evening, Rev. T. H. Pearne delivered an eloquent address to a crowded audience at the Dalles, in behalf of the purposes of the Sanitary Commission, to which a liberal response was made by a contribution of $105 12 in coin, and $80 00 in currency.

The same evening, Judge Williams spoke very effectively to a full house in Oregon City; his words of earnest and unconditional patriotism were warmly applauded. The collection, taken in that loyal community, which gives often, and always liberally, amounted to between forty and fifty dollars in coin.

A GOOD EXAMPLE.—The Union men at Jefferson, Linn county, have recently organized a club, and elected as its officers—A. B. Cosper, President; A. Gray, Vice President; C. B. Roland, Secretary; C. T. Finlayson, Treasurer. Resolutions full of unconditional patriotism were passed unanimously. We wish every precinct in the State would follow the example of these loyal and liberty-loving citizens.

THE GREAT EASTERN.—This monster ship, which has excited the wonder of the world, is about to be disposed of by her present owners, at a grand raffle which is to take place at Frankfort-on-the-Main. Her construction was a most unfortunate speculation, and her history has been full of melancholy disaster. A curse seems to have attended her from the hour when her keel was laid to the present. She reduced the company that projected her to bankruptcy before she ever touched water. It cost £80,000 to launch her. Her builder, Mr. Brunel, died (it is said, of a broken heart) before he had completed his work. On her first trial trip one of her engines exploded, killing a number of people and tearing up her main cabin into splinters. During her first voyage, a mutiny occurred among her crew. Her Captain was drowned while coming on board of her, before she left the British coast. She was nearly wrecked at Holyhead; put into Milford Haven in distress; had a hole stove in her bottom at Sandy Hook; lost her rudder on another voyage, and narrowly escaped going down to the bottom with all on board; in short, she never made a voyage, so far as we can remember, without some mishap or other. Her crew believed that she was haunted. The tradition ran that one of the workmen fell, by accident, between her inward and outward plates, was riveted fast to her iron side, where his uneasy spirit still lodges, making night hideous by its unearthly wailings. It is not to be wondered at that men prone to be superstitious should seek for no explanation of the ill fortune that has attended her in the supernatural. It does not require a very large stretch of credulity to fancy that the great ship is under the influence of a malign Power, beyond the might of man to control.

IMPORTANT RULING OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE UNDER THE HOMESTEAD LAW.—It has been decided by the General Land Office that in cases where persons have pre-empted public lands, and have allowed the time for entry to expire without making the entry, such lands are not held as "vacant public lands" under the terms of the Homestead Act, and consequently are not subject to homestead entry, by new parties, unless they have been deserted by the former pre-emptor. Many persons allow the time of entry under the pre-emption law to expire, either through negligence or lack of funds, without perfecting their entries. This neglect makes the land subject to a new pre emption or entry, by any other party, the original pre-emptor forfeiting his right, but does not forfeit his right to enter under the Homestead Law, and all others are prohibited from making such entry.

COTTON TRADE.—The money writer in the New York World calls upon Secretary Chase to open the cotton trade of the South. It argues that the purchase of $80,000,000 of cotton, to be paid for in greenbacks, would decrease the circulation to that amount, and enable the Northern States to obtain $100,000,000 in gold or its equivalent, and thus the prices of gold and exchange would decline naturally. It would also draw so much from the resources of the Confederacy, by giving the planters greenbacks they would hoard, while by the operation of the confiscation act they will naturally prefer to allow their cotton to be destroyed rather than fall into Federal hands. With a pocket full of greenbacks, it is not likely the planters would be more earnest in aiding the rebel cause.

The Eastern papers give a list of the curiosities on exhibition at the Sanitary Fair in Boston. Among them were numerous relics of Washington—his sash, saddle, epaulettes, cane, with numerous autographs and letters; also, a bronze jar from Shanghae, two thousand years old; sword of Miles Standish; lock of the gun which killed King Philip of Mount Hope, in 1676; and a wooden bowl taken from Philip's wigwam; a bible printed in Venice in 1478, before printing was introduced into England, and numerous rare and genuine autographs and letters. There were also exhibited the shoes worn by the royal family of England, and a pair of shoes purchased in Georgia by a young lady who arrived in Boston the day before the Fair. The shoes are coarser than any young lady would wear in the North, and are laced with white cord. The lady owning them had paid $40 for them, and refused to sell them for $50

LETTER FROM NEAL DOW.—Brigadier General Dow, author of the "Maine Law," is in Libby Prison. The following letter from him will be read with interest. It was addressed to the people of Maine:

LIBBY PRISON, RICHMOND, VA., Dec. 7, 1863.

DEAR SIR: This afternoon I had the pleasure of receiving your kind note of the 3d November.

I hope the people will not make contributions for Libby Prison. By so doing they will be likely to send here far more supplies than will be needed. Whatever the people may choose to give, let it be given to the United States Sanitary Commission, which will send to us everything that we shall require, and nothing will be lost or wasted. The Sanitary Commission will distribute its benefactions intelligently, at the points where they are most wanted.

Will you please have the above published in Boston, New York and Portland.

I am very well and in excellent spirits. Remember me kindly to all my temperance friends. I am more earnest in the good cause than ever, if possible, and when the war is over, which is not far off, I shall go to work as earnestly as ever.

Truly yours,

NEAL DOW, Brig. Gen., U. S. A.

WHY PARSON BROWNLOW LEFT KNOXVILLE. At a war meeting held in Cincinnati on the 10th of December, Parson Brownlow gave the following good and sufficient reason for his recent "charge of base":

I understand that this is a war meeting, and that you are assembled here for the purpose of drumming up volunteers. In this matter I am in a somewhat awkward position, having recently taken to my heels like a greyhound, and made three hundred miles in a short time. In the last two years, as you well know, I have done some brave talking, which the rebels remember. Were I to say that I should be treated as our soldiers taken by them are—incarcerated in their lousy prisons, their Libbys and Castle Thunders—I should have said, for I could endure the lice. I did not run out of cowardice, but I well knew that if they took me I would have to pull hemp without a foothold [laughter], so I ran.

FORESEEING THEIR FATE.—A correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer, writing from General Grant's army, says:

Officers captured on Missionary Ridge stated that Hardee shed bitter tears over the destruction of his corps and the turning of the rebel position. He was heard to say to Breckinridge, "We have not far to look for the end—our best hopes are blasted."

SHERMAN THE TRAVELING GENERAL.—The Providence Journal has a true statement in regard to a brave General, in the following extract:

Our Twelfth Regiment, which was almost constantly on the move during its nine months' service, used to call the "great class in geography," General Sherman would be a fit teacher for such a class. For whenever any rapid movement is to be executed, whether a pursuit is to be made, General Grant is sure to send for him to the front. He was sent to Louisville to hasten the forces that were ordered to Nashville, and to rejoin the main body of the army in time to take part in the subsequent operations. No sooner was Vicksburg taken than he was started off to Jackson in pursuit of the foe, and made that terrible march out and back, which was so trying to troops on. Seventh Regiment among others. When a corps was to be brought up from the Mississippi to Chattanooga, it was again Sherman's which was selected. Taking with him a large part of the corps, which was at or Memphis, he worked for weeks unceasingly to open the Charleston Railroad to Bridgeport. Having fought his way to Tuscumbia, he was recalled to the north side of the Tennessee river, to clear Hurlbut to the front and arrived in time to take a part, and the hardest part, in the great battle of Mission Ridge. Two-thirds of the loss in the battles before Chattanooga was sustained by his men. But no sooner was the contest ended than Sherman was on the road to Rangold, where a very sharp contest took place with rear guard of Bragg's army. And before we received the news of that battle, Sherman was on the way to Knoxville, more than a hundred miles distant, and was soon thundering upon the heels of Longstreet. We think that Sherman's soldiers ought to receive from Government an extra allowance for shoes, if not for other clothing. Yet this is the General Sherman who was said, to his envy, because at the beginning of the campaign in Kentucky, two years ago, he stated that five hundred thousand men were needed there for the work.

THE NEW YORK HERALD'S CANDIDATE FOR THE PRESIDENCY.—The Herald, of the 4th ultimo, devotes nine columns to setting forth reasons why Ulysses S. Grant should be the next President of the United States. The General is taken up from early youth, and every incident in his life telling in his favor, and which it was possible to collect, is set forth with all the skill of penerat. The exhaustive article winds up with the following, as a climax:

WHAT "U. S." STANDS FOR—Ulysses S. Grant. Union Standing Grant. Unconditional Surrender Grant. Uncle Sam Grant. United States Grant. Unparalleled Success Grant. Unabridged Seizure Grant. Union Saver Grant. Undeniable Superior Grant. Unflinching Surmounter Grant. Undaunted Soldier Grant. Understanding Secession Grant. Ulysses Samson Grant. Unshackle Slaves Grant. Ultimate Subjugation Grant. Uncommon Smart Grant. Unequalled Smasher Grant. Utterly Solid Grant. Utmost Safety Grant. Unrivalled System Grant. Unexceptionable Scientific Grant. Undertake Sure Grant. Undoubted Spunk Grant. Universal Sanative Grant. Unadulterated Saltpetre Grant. Uniform Succeeder Grant. Undisputed Sagacity Grant. Unabated Siege Grant. Unbending Superexcellence Grant. Unexampled Skill Grant. Undoubtedly Spunky Grant. Unprecedented Sardine Grant; and, what is best of all, he belongs to US, and will be the Unanimously Selected Grant for the next Presidency.

SAUL AMONG THE PROPHETS.—The ranks of the "Abolitionists," as Democrats call all those who live and labor for the cause of the Union are growing fuller and stronger every day, and the accessions are from among the most adamantine of the bed-rock Democracy. Even so thorough a conservative as James T. Brady of New York, who was among the most zealous of the advocates of the election of Seymour, lately in a speech, talked in the following radical terms; we ask Democrats if what he says is not perfectly true?

I say to these gentlemen for whom within the feeble limits of my capacity I have made all the sacrifices that belonged to a young life or an old experience, all the political ones I will tell you that there can come a time when there can be a reconstruction of this Union founded on Slavery, are telling you a lie. We thought we could make any sacrifices to retain that institution, so long as it could continue consistently with the judgment of God. I say now for myself here and hereafter, that I never mean to fight that battle again. It is ended. The great God of the Universe has terminated it, and the rebellion, terrible as it is, costly in blood, and in treasure, is, in my humble and reverent conception, one of the mysterious ways in which the justice of God is being worked out against the predecessors of these thousands of men.

A NEW SPECULATION.—Concerning widows, a war correspondent of the St. Louis Republican writes that "a mine of wealth richer than any that ever was worked in California or Golconda, has been found in the persons of the numberless widows now inhabiting the shores of the river hereabout. One of our acquaintance has found a lovely widow, with no further incumbrance than some three hundred bales of cotton, which in consideration of a contract of amity between them, and ratified by a clergyman, have been converted into greenbacks, to be used jointly. Another has found a pair of widows, (neither of whom he can marry, since he is honest enough to admit of one existing marriage,) but has secured some sixty thousand dollars for his influence in getting husbands for both. A third we know has so endeared himself to a lone woman by his winning ways, that he is established on her plantation as his boss manager, with a salary of ten thousand per annum and found. We make no charge for giving publicity to the fact that there are hundreds of others with similar endowments, and to the race of fortune-hunters we can suggest no better field for adventure than this, provided they have no regard for that tremendous admonition of the sainted Weller."

AN EXPANSIVE IDEA.—Robert J. Breckinridge recently published a great article in the Danville Review, relating to the war. Having reviewed the hopeless condition of the Confederacy, he makes the following wise suggestions to the rebels. While they are able to travel, they had better take the advice of that truly great man:

If these insurgent troops are so embittered against the United States, that they are resolved to brave any fortune, sooner than to return to their allegiance to it, how much better would it be for them to quit the desperate folly and mischief they are now engaged in—and escaping the destruction which awaits them—march into Mexico, drive the French out of it, and—followed by their women and children—establish themselves in some portion of Spanish North America, where all who choose to share their fortunes, might join them from the United States, and where they would lay the foundations of a glorious future."

THE VOICE OF MARYLAND.—Senator Reverdy Johnson's manly speech on the President's policy has created quite a sensation. Let it be borne in mind that a Senator from Maryland declared: "I would see the institution of slavery arrested at once, let the country be subjected to all the calamities which I think would flow from the abolition of the institution, in all these States for a time, rather than see this rebellion live an hour longer."

Recently two large trunks, filled with fine tooth combs, were seized in Washington on their way to Dixie. That was too bad. It was cruel; it was remorseless. Do the Union authorities mean that the rebels shall be eaten alive?

BOOKOLT MOUNTAIN AND CHATTANOOGA.—Now, turning to the right, you look south upon the low lands, and the further side of the picture is dotted with more tents and shanties in gray away in the distance (some miles intervening), not far enough off to be blue. But you forget it in an instant as the eye climbs hastily up the wooded line, higher and higher to a craggy crown, wrinkled with ravines and crested with trees, that hangs like a great frown between earth and heaven, then dropping abruptly away to your right southward, subsides into a valley through which the retiring Tennessee river is lost to the Federal clearing. Look, Midway of the gradual ewig, shorn of its ridge of oaks, you see a house, a rocky corner of white, upon the brown swell of earth and trees. Lookout Mountain is before you, grim and grand. The glorious glimpses of free States granted to them who stand upon the mighty threshold between this world and that are denied to us just now, and we must find our time. The morning has worn away to 8 o'clock, when, from the very top of the dread hills a little grey cloud, as if unseen hands were doing to wind the rugged brow with a turban. In its midst a bevy grows, and the rebel guns fire, and "good morning" to Hooker's enemies in the valley beyond. You cannot get out of sight of Lookout. Go where you will, within all the horizon you see, turning and wheeling there forever, the mountain. It rises like an everlasting thunderstorm that will never pass over. Saturn might have fenced the kingdoms of the world from that summit. Seen daily through the past, it looms up with its 2,900 feet and upwards, but when the sun shines strongly out, it draws so near as to startle you and you feel as if you were beneath the caves of its roof where drips an iron rain. And yet, from the spot where we stand it is three miles to its summit, three miles to Mission Ridge, and three miles to Moccasin Point. But your eyes are not weary, and so they follow down the flickering line of Lookout, up into the gateway of the Tennessee, and again to a red ridge, that seems to you, when you stand, like a vast tumulus, big with the dead of an entire line. From it every white tent you look, seems the loyal "good morning" back again. You feel that the guns it utters the shell, and then, trailing after it, the crash of the iron egg as it butchers its work out. The red ridge is Maccasin Point, whose sharp talk is a proverb. Glancing northward up the western horizon is Raccoon Range, and upon a peak of it, just opposite and west of us, is a Federal signal-station. Then away to the north-west and across the north, the mountains edges trace the lines of beauty, curving and blending, until the graceful profile of the horizon is complete.

But within this sweep of grandeur lies a thing whose name shall endure when yours and mine have been effaced by Time, like a writing upon a slate with a dampened finger—Chattanooga. Once a town with one main business street to give it a little commercial pulsation; residences, some of them beautiful, a few of them stately, sprinkled all around upon the acclivities, interposed with more structures built up in true Southern architecture—boles in the middle, or balconies, or the ubiquities turned out of doors. A stinted, rusty-looking market-house subdued beneath a chuckle-headed belfry, four or five churches of indifferent fashion, two or three hotels whose "entertainment" has departed with the Bonifaces, and straggling tenements "of low degree," are pretty nearly all that remain of "the crow's nest." As you pass along the central street the dingy signs of old dead business attract the eye, when, "A. Baker, Attorney at Law," once uttered oracles and squirted tobacco juice. Federal stores have taken Blackstone's place; where ribbons ran smoothly over the salesman's fingers, boxes of "hard tack" are piled, like Ossa and Pelion come again. Fences have gone, lightly up in camp-fires; tents have sprung up like mushrooms in the flower-beds; trees have turned to ashes, shrubbery is trampled under foot, gardens are nothing better than mule pens, shot and shell have left a token here and there, and across the whole, war has scrawled his autograph. But never think you have seen the town at one glance; it is down here and up there and over yonder; the little hills swell beneath it like billows; you will gain the idea if I say it is a town gone to pieces in a heavy sea. To see it require a dozen looks. Chattanooga, important though it is, as the junction of the three grand lines of communications by rail to Richmond, Nashville and Mobile, seems to have a chronic frolic, and is playing hide and seek with itself.

GEN. FREMONT.—A correspondent of the New York Evening Post, writing from Jefferson City, Missouri, says:

Political matters in this State are assuming a phase which must be in the highest degree gratifying to the friends of Freedom throughout the North. The front undercurrent of popular feeling is setting in with strong tide in favor of Fremont. And all parties, both Radical and Democrat, seem now to readily recognize his past services in the cause of Freedom, and to entertain strong feelings of gratitude for them. The Radicals see in him a fit exponent of their views and wishes, and a large portion of the loyal people of Missouri who formerly acted with the Democratic party now recognize in him a true representative of the people, whose rights he will ever, under all circumstances, protect and hold inviolate, whenever and however assailed, and in whose fidelity and integrity they have a strong abiding faith. With politicians, it is somewhat mixed.

Every effort is making to turn the Radical successes to partisan account; but the people understand that it is simply an effort to steal the thunder of the originator of the Emancipation movement in this State, to whose efforts the credit of those successes unquestionably belongs.

THE LIFE OF JAMES BUCHANAN.—At the Auction rooms of Ford & Lovett; Central Row, last evening, a number of books were put up, among them one that is usually sold for a dollar and a half, which drew out the following:

Auctioneer—"Here gentlemen is the life of James Buchanan; how much am I offered?"

A Voice—"A postage stamp."

Another Voice—"Five cents." (Laughter.)

Then somebody said "ten cents," and another "twelve," and at last another "fifteen."

Auctioneer—"Sold, gentlemen; James Buchanan sold for fifteen cents."

A Voice—"And d—d dear at that."

And the crowd cheered, as if they thought so too.—Hartford Courant.

SALES OF MINING STOCK.—During the week ending Feb. 13th, the following sales of stock in the Santiam gold and silver quartz mines are reported: "Monday, 8th, 33 shares "Santiam," at $43 per share; 5 shares "Union," at $100 per share. Tuesday, 9th, 5 shares Santiam at $43 50. Thursday, 11th, 20 shares Santiam at $45; 10 shares Union at $103. Friday, 12th, 10 shares Santiam at $45; 3 shares Union at $103. Saturday, 13th, 2 shares Santiam at $45; 2 shares Union at $100.—Statesman.

LEARNING WISDOM.—Gov. Latcher, of Virginia, in his recent message, cautions the rebels that their previous contempt of the Yankees has not been well founded—that in fact it has been a great weakness of theirs—and that it would be well in future not to underestimate the power, number and preparations of the enemy. Very well said—though a little late in the day.

PROMOTED.—Lieut. George Williams, formerly of Salem, promoted from Second to First Lieutenant, for gallant services at the battle of Gettysburg, has again been promoted to a Captaincy in the regular army.—Statesman.

THE SWORD THE MIGHTIER.—It is said that the rebel guerrillas have killed and carried off more than five thousand hogs on the Kansas border—a fact which proves conclusively that the sword is mightier than the pen.

A communication in the Charleston Mercury signed "Ladies," complains that the mulatto women monopolize the shoe and dry goods stores, and crowd them out which argues a queer state of society.

Secretary Wells gives to patient and suffering auditors throughout the land comfortable assurance that he has an abundance of shot and shell for smooth bores!

A pious editor in Dixie writes a description of hell. It reads like the journal of a tourist through the Southern Confederacy.

Heavy Gale at San Francisco—Damage to Shipping.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—A heavy gale commenced blowing last evening, and increased in violence towards night, creating great confusion in the harbor. The steamer Monte Cristo, which had been ordered off from Mission street wharf, on account of the heavy sea, until after discharging her cargo, was compelled to put out and remain during the night, and is consequently without mail. The steamer Golden Age, lying in the harbor, slipped her anchor and got out of the channel. Sierra Nevada, which was moored at Folsom street wharf—both steamers sustaining considerable damage to their upper works. The Sierra Nevada lost her bowsprit. She had steam up, and there was a powerful steaming gang at hand to aid the Golden Age.

EVERGREENS.—We have perhaps the finest evergreens in the country, on the Pacific coast, and in the vicinity of Portland they are by no means a scarce article, yet the attention paid to the cultivation of them in our gardens and door yards, is of slight occurrence. Annually, during the Christmas holiday season, large numbers of them are destroyed, by uses of adornment to churches, etc or for trees upon which to display gifts in ungalvanized parlors or at the Sabbath school room. This lawlessness may not at present be perceptible—but at all events it will lead to a decrease in a certain measure, that will ultimately result in a scarcity of these "Gothic beauties," the Balsam and the Pine that will be adapted for the purposes of ornamentation. Not so very many years ago the unfrequented woods of New York and New Jersey were a great field for the "evergreen harvest," but now the aristocracy of our modern Gotham get their evergreens from the Catskill Mountains, or even go from home to the State of Maine for them, at prices extraordinary. Let us prize the evergreens, and it will be pleasant in future years to see them growing in flourishing gardens on every side of the city, and on the margin of the river.

A CONVINCED MACHINE.—Mr J M Howe, of this city, has nearly completed the model of a most important machine for dressing wagon wheels, etc. It will saw the spokes to the right length, and tenon them after they have been driven into the hub. It will bore the mortises, and after the wheel is put together and one revolution, on a table prepared for it, will be planed off on three sides. After the wheel is done, by taking out one bolt, and throwing off two bolts, a part of the machine can be disconnected, and the principal used as a planing machine, for cutting stuff or the general work in manufacturing sash and doors. We expect soon to hear this model at the Patent Office in Washington City.

LOST HAND.—A human hand, with part of the wrist attached, was discovered by some boys on the levee, below Stark street ferry yesterday. It was evidently washed ashore from the river, and bears unmistakable signs of having once preserved in spirits. The hand has been properly amputated at the wrist, and from the effect of a frightful wound appears upon it, supposed to have been caused by a It is a right hand, and was the property of considerable speculation as to how it came there, and to whom it belonged. All "wherefores" amount to but little, it is an outrage to thus disfigure a portion of the human form.

A pedestrian, on traveling about in the vicinity of Couch's wharf, was somewhat surprise at the immense quantity of apples piled about that locality, awaiting shipment to California and John Bull's dominions. We cannot expect to realize more than a third of a reasonable sum for our apples produce until the facilities for transportation are owned or controlled here, and we are not quite less at the mercy of foreign capitalists.

The case of the State vs Henry Kittumer, for the murder of Duval and Sarah S Hess, for an assault upon John Hess, with intent to kill, the jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty," in regard to the two last named defendants. The case of (Kittumer) fled to parts unknown yesterday morning.

A FRAME FOR ABOVE.—We observe among the mechanical concerns of the lower city, the frame of a small stern wheel steamer being put together on Front street, near Capt Ankeny's residence, and intended for transportation to be put together on Snake River, in this country.

SALMON OF THE SEASON.—By the steamer Senator, from Oregon City, yesterday came a lot of Salmon, the first of the season, were placed in our market. They were caught at Cloakamas, and are sold at $1 50 each.

SENT TO JAIL.—Perry A Vicker, the prisoner recently brought from the Dalles by Sheriff Waddell, had an examination before Justice Kelly yesterday. He was found in $500 to keep the peace—in default of bail he was locked up.

LARCENY.—In the case of the State vs. Charles H Smith, the jury found him guilty of stealing two blank books, of the value of $5 each. He was fined $100, in default of which he is in the custody of the Sheriff.

Buckeye Wagons are becoming quite common of late, and contribute to make the appearance of our wharves lively, on the arrival of passenger boats. We observed a brand new one yesterday for the Temperance House.

The steamer Cowlitz, Capt. Olson, arrived down yesterday, with some 15 passengers for Puget Sound bound. A scow of hay was in tow of the steamer.

AT AUCTION.—A B Richardson sells this morning, it being his regular sale day, an extensive assortment of crockery, glass ware, etc, received by the last steamer from Victoria.

Mrs. Mary Ann McCarty was yesterday granted a decree of divorce from Jeremiah McCarty.

The steamer Wilson G Hunt carried away 140 passengers yesterday morning, the freight was inconsiderable.

The steamer Senator yesterday brought down 55 tons of freight principally apples and bacon, and 20 passengers.

The bark Samuel Merritt is expected to leave on Friday morning.

THE DRAMA.—A very fair audience greeted the play at Willamette Theatre last night which passed off quite satisfactorily. Tonight Mr Perry and Thayer the popular and pleasing actors in each line of the bill offered for the occasion is itself sufficient to draw a crowded house. The Merchant of Venice in all Shakespearian readers are awarded ranks deservedly as one of his most finished productions. We can trace in this play the maturity of the poet's intellectual power which he so eminently knew how to fuse into his strongest delineations of passion and feeling. Mrs John Dean Haynes will enact the sublime part of Portia, with Miss Sallie B Goodrich as Nerissa and Mr G B Waldron as Bassanio and the Beneficiare as the avaricious Jew. Faint Heart Never Won Fair Lady is the concluding piece in which Mrs Haynes also appears. We can only wish that Mr Thayer may have a full bumper.

JAPANESE STUDENT.—Among the new scholars at the Academy in this city, on Monday, was one of the Japanese type. He enters upon his duties in earnest as a student, and is attentive to receive instruction. In answer to the inquiry as to why he attended our school? he said he had left Jeddo for the purpose of obtaining an education, that he might return there to instruct others. Who says he is not engaged in a good work.

Mr J B Whitson, one of the jurymen in the Noble cause, claims that we were in error in our statement that the case was decided by a "flip of the coin." It was so understood on the street, and the rumor has been current since the trial.

ICE.—There is one place in the city where they keep ice at least one would think so from the frigid appearance of the sign.

IS DANCING A HEALTHY AND HARMLESS RECREATION.—We contend that it is innocent and healthy, when not indulged in to excess, and we recommend the lovers of the dance to patronise Houston, Hastings & Co, the celebrated Clothiers of Montgomery street, San Francisco, for they have the finest articles used in ball rooms and parties—all the little matters of wear that beaux delight to appear in before the eyes of their Lady Loves.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES FOR COUGHS AND COLDS.

A NEGLECTED COUGH, COLD, OR IRRITATED OR SORE THROAT if allowed to progress results in serious Pulmonary, Bronchial and Asthmatic Diseases often times incurable. Brown's Bronchial Troches reach directly the affected parts and give almost immediate relief. For Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh and Consumptive Coughs the Troches are useful. Public Speakers and Singers should have the Troches to clear and strengthen the Voice. Military Officers and Soldiers who overtax the voice, and are exposed to sudden changes should use them. Obtain only the genuine. Brown's Bronchial Troches having proved their efficacy by a test of many years are highly recommended and prescribed by Physicians and Surgeons in the Army and hath received testimonials from many eminent men.

Our Lettice.

I said to Lettice, our sister Lettice,
While it dropped and twinkled her lashes brown,
"You make a poor man, a cold and poor man,
There's many a better about our town."
She laughed securely: "He loves me purely;
A true heart's easier than smile or frown;
And nothing harms me when his heart's warm to me,
Let the world go up or the world go down."

"It comes of strangers: strangers are rangers,
Ape trusting nothing but a suit of white;
Newfolk may blame ye, or e'en defame ye,
A gown o'er-handled looks seldom white."
She raised serenely her eyelids queenly
"My innocence is my whitest guard;
No ill tongue grieves me, while I believe me,
Whether the world goes up or down."

"Your man's a frail man—and so's a male man,
And sickness knocks at the door of many a door;
And Death comes making bold hearts come breaking
Our Lettice quittered but once—no more."
"If death should enter, smite to the center,
Our great honor-palace, all crumbling down,
He shall blight us, not dismantle us,
Love tears Love's cross, Death brings Love's crown."

A New Hair-Oil.

David and Robert, two young men noted for their careful toilets, lodged at a house where the servant girls take their share of hair-oils, toothpowders, and use the hairbrushes and cologne water regardless of expense. The young men, dwelling together, were in the habit of getting a pint of hair-oil made up by the druggist at a time; and, finally, they were in the habit of finding that a pint of this costly hair-oil wouldn't last a week, and that all the servant girls in the house emitted the same perfume that they did. It was not long before they came to a conclusion in the matter. So one evening, when the hair-oil bottle was empty, they took the bottle which contained it and straight they went to the chemists. They got a mixture of various articles in a bottle, and the following was marked on the prescription-book as the contents:

"Of lac assafœtida (which for the information of our readers, we will state is a highly concentrated extract of that delicious drug,) one ounce.

"Of liquor potassæ (a fluid celebrated for its corrosive quality, having the power of taking their hair off a dog in ten seconds,) half an ounce.

"Of honey, one ounce.

"Of alcohol, to make the ingredients fluid, ½ a pint."

[illegible] was well shook and deposited in the [illegible] place occupied by the hair-oil. The [illegible]day (Sunday) Dave and Bob dressed [illegible]ves for church and travelled down [illegible]but they came up again in a few [illegible] and secreted themselves in a room [illegible]ining theirs, where they could see everything that went on. After the people of the [illegible] had gone, two or three servant girls [illegible] the next room.

"Molly," said a large red-haired [illegible]; "either Dave has more of the ile, and [illegible] dirty as powder; let's have a [illegible]folks all away."

[illegible] accededto it, and they all went to [illegible] being very lavish of the fluid, [illegible] quite thin, in consequence of the

[illegible]nutes redhead says:
[illegible] smells so?" with her nose

[illegible]fume," interrupted a short [illegible]omen, with her hair down

[illegible]ed!" says the red-head, [illegible]'s the rale bad smell."
[illegible]mpsey, "it's a perfume

[illegible]ead, and of a thorough [illegible] room. In about two [illegible] home from church.
[illegible]hat is it? Bless my [illegible]t! Oh, my dear, there [illegible]in this room!" a [illegible] were heard, as the [illegible]rmery when they [illegible]ister and mistress [illegible] confounded, in [illegible]ered to discover [illegible]at dinner-time [illegible] boarders at the [illegible] were rapidly [illegible]hree girls who [illegible]a them.
[illegible]up, and with the inmates alter- [illegible]. The day was a [illegible]re away.
[illegible]ted to comb [illegible]ated, lady- [illegible] and they [illegible] to a bunch [illegible]t redhead [illegible] influence [illegible]ole mass of [illegible]anium, which [illegible]t would have [illegible]The same result [illegible]air, with the excep- [illegible]n a scalp lock to or- [illegible]s, in the Indian style, [illegible]ee the same fate, and [illegible]t that night they might have [illegible]p their last locks in piece- [illegible]e next morning they were [illegible]mistress that she did not [illegible]employ baldheaded servant-girls, [illegible]"chisses" they departed in almost [illegible]ondition.

[illegible]ery of Dave and Bob's connection [illegible]action was not known until late- [illegible]eir toilet articles since then have [illegible]nacted from touch.

[illegible]ANADISM.—Sir Charles Lyell, when [illegible]United States, received the following ad- [illegible]om a friend:

[illegible]you are racing with an opposition [illegible]at, or chasing her, and the other pas- [illegible]are cheering the captain, who is sit- [illegible]on the safety-valve to keep it down with [illegible]weight, go as far as you can from the [illegible]ace, and lose no time, especially if you [illegible]ar the captain exclaim, "Fire up, boys—put on the resin!" Should a servant call out, Those gentlemen who have not paid their passage will please go to the ladies' cabin!" [illegible]or without a moment's delay, for then an [illegible]ion may be apprehended. "Why to ladies' cabin?" said I. "Because it is the end of the boat, and they are getting anxious for the personal security of those who have not yet paid their dollars, being, of course, indifferent about the rest. Therefore, never pay in advance, for should you fall overboard during the race, and the watch cries out to the captain, "A passenger overboard!" he will ask, "Has he paid his passage?" and if he receives an answer in the affirmative, he will call out, "Go ahead!"

LITTLE GIRLS.—A philosopher with an unusually tender heart recently declared:

"There is something inexpressibly sweet in little girls. Lovely, pure, innocent, ingenious, unsuspecting, full of kindness to brothers, babies and everything. They are sweet little flowers, diamond dewdrops in the breath of morn. What a pity they should ever become women, flirts and heartless coquettes!"

The latest style of hoop skirts is the self adjusting, double back-action, bustle extraordinary, face-expansion, Piccolomini-attachment, gossamer-indestructible, polecticmorama. It is a very sweet thing.

It does not follow that two persons are fit to marry because they are good. Milk is good, and mustard is good, but they are not good for each other.

THE FEMALE FREEMASON.—It is generally supposed that women can never become Masons, but there was an exception to this in Ireland, many years ago, in the case of Mrs. Elisabeth Aldworth:

She was of the St. Leger family, and the daughter of Lord Viscount Donerailé, whose ancestor Sir Arthur St. Leger was Lord Lieutenant of Ireland in the reign of Henry VIII, and died in the reign of Queen Mary in 1559. The circumstances of her initiation into Masonry are briefly as follows: Lord Donerailé, held a lodge at Donerailé House, in the place above named, of which several of his family were members; the lodge warrant being numbered 150. One evening when an initiation was in progress, Mrs. Aldworth—then unmarried—was in a room adjoining the lodge room, which had been undergoing some repairs. Hearing voices, she was induced to listen. By the aid of her scissors, she picked a hole through the plaster, and was thus enabled to see the degree conferred. At its close, she attempted to escape, but came suddenly face to face with the Tyler. He gave an alarm and seized her, and when brought before the members of the lodge, she confessed to what she had heard and seen. After anxious consideration, it was determined to comply with her suggestion, and make her a Mason, which was done on the spot. She always lived up to the tenets of the craft, founded Masonic schools, and appeared at the processions of the scholars in her Masonic regalia. She died respected and beloved at Newmarket, County of Cork, in December, 1810, at the age of 80 years.

AMUSING INSTANCE OF REBEL DESERTION.—After the advance of our army upon Bragg at Tullahoma, and his retreat, the Pioneer Brigade pushed on to Elk river to repair a bridge. While one of its men, a private, was bathing in the river, five of Bragg's soldiers, guns in hand, came to the bank and took aim at the swimmer, one of them shouting—

"Come in here, you d—d Yank, out of the wet!"

The Federal was quite sure that he was "done for," and at once obeyed the order, and after dressing he was thus accosted:

"You surrender our prisoner, do you?"

"Yes, of course I do."

"That's kind. Now we'll surrender to you!" And the five stacked arms before him, their spokesman adding—

"We've done with 'em and have said to old Bragg, 'good-by!' Secesh is played out. Now you surround us and take us into your camp."

This was done accordingly, and is but one of hundreds of instances of wholesale desertion coming to the knowledge of our officers during the months of July and August in Lower Tennessee.

THE HAPPIEST MEN.—Lord Byron said:—"The Mechanics and workingmen who can maintain their families, are, in my opinion, the happiest body of men. Poverty is wretchedness, but even poverty is, perhaps, to be preferred to the heartless, unmeaning dissipation of the higher orders." Another author says: "I have no propensity to envy any one, least of all the rich and great; but if I were disposed to this weakness, the subject of my envy would be a healthy young man, in full possession of his strength and faculties, going forth in the morning to work for his wife and children, or bringing them home his wages at night."

A teacher had been explaining to his class the points of the compass. All were drawn up in front towards the north.

"Now, what is before you, John?"

"The north, sir."

"What is behind you, Tom?"

"My coat tail, sir," said he, trying at the same time to get a glimpse of it.

A young married woman whose husband has "gone to the war," heard in a conversation the remark, that the Government wanted more cavalry and more infantry. She replied that she knew nothing about cavalry—but added, with a sigh, that if more infantry were needed, the Government had better send some of the married volunteers home again.

An exchange says that, as babies are a sort of marriage certificate, under the new law, it will be necessary to have a ten cent stamp affixed to them.

Notice to Tax-Payers.

NOTICE is hereby given to the Tax-Payers of the City of Portland, that the Delinquent Assessment Roll of the City of Portland, for the general and special taxes, together with the additional five per cent. added thereto, for the fiscal years 1863 and '64, has been placed in my hands for collection, with instructions from the Common Council of said city, to proceed forthwith and enforce the payment of said taxes in gold or silver coin, by seizing and selling the personal property, goods and chattels of persons remaining delinquent upon said roll.

I will be at the Council Chamber, No. 23 Front street, (up stairs) during business hours of each day, for the purpose of receiving and receipting for said taxes, and all persons that are delinquent upon said roll are notified that they will save costs by calling at once and paying said taxes. The Collector will not call upon any person at his office for the purpose of levying on property to make said taxes.

BUCHTEL & CARDWELL'S
PICTURES ARE THE BEST IN OREGON

HELMBOLD'S
Genuine Preparation.
HIGHLY CONCENTRATE
Compound Fluid
EXTRACT BUCHU,
A POSITIVE AND SPECIFIC REMEDY
FOR DISEASES OF THE BLADDER, KIDNEYS, GRAVEL
AND DROPSICAL SWELLINGS.
This Medicine increases the power of DIGESTION and excites the absorbents into healthy action, by which the WATERY or CALCEROUS depositions, and all UNNATURAL ENLARGEMENTS are reduced, as well as PAIN and INFLAMMATION, and is good for MEN, WOMEN OR CHILDREN.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU
For Weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion or Abuse.
ATTENDED WITH THE FOLLOWING SYMPTOMS:

Indisposition to Exertion,	Loss of Power,
Loss of Memory,	Difficulty of Breathing,
Weak Nerves,	Trembling,
Horror of Disease,	Wakefulness,
Dimness of Vision,	Pain in the Back,
Universal Lassitude of the	Muscular System,
The Hands,	Flushing of the Body,
Dryness of the Skin,	Eruptions on the Face,
Pallid Countenance.

These symptoms if allowed to go on, which this medicine invariably removes, soon follows
Impotency, Fatuity, Epileptic Fits,
IN ONE OF WHICH THE PATIENT MAY RECINE.
Who can say that they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases,"
"INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION,"
Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess
THE RECORDS OF THE INSANE ASYLUMS,
